Your curriculum topic – English – Music – all in one exciting song!

Curriculum Visions has it covered!

Learning can be effective when presented in many forms. Music is an age-old way of telling a story. Songs can encapsulate the spirit of an event in a few words. You may wish to start your topic with these songs.

You can use this song and its lyrics for:

- Learning about song writing
- Learning and understanding poetry
- Reading and singing while the music plays to prompt reading skills
- Making a comparison between music styles and genres
- Setting the scene for the topic, and at the end review to see how much the song has captured the spirit of the topic.

At the end of the day it is serious learning - with a twist.

Enjoy.

Tips: To use this music at the start of a topic, ask children to say what they have learned, including key vocabulary words. At the end of the topic, see how many extra vocabulary words they can add.
