

Keeping safe

We use lights and reflectors to keep safe.

Traffic lights help to keep cars safe.

Lights on cars show where the car is at night.

Reflecting safety strips on our clothes show up in car beams.

Cars use headlights so they can see the road ahead.

People wear shiny reflective strips so they can be seen in the dark.

Cars and bikes have reflectors at the back so they can be seen when car headlights shine on them.

Traffic lights tell the cars when to stop or to move safely.

Where are the reflective strips on your coat?