

Babies and toddlers

As babies grow into toddlers they change what they do.

Babies are very small and weak. They need food to help them grow up. Their legs are too weak to let them stand. They cannot speak to us when they are uncomfortable and so they cry.

They wriggle.

They cry.

They need lots of sleep.

They only have milk for food.

Toddlers eat lots of different foods.

Toddlers need less sleep than babies.

When babies grow strong enough to walk they are called toddlers. Toddlers can get about. They know how to use their hands. They can also talk and tell us what they want and when they are not happy.

Toddlers walk and talk.
