

Name: Form:

See pages 8 and 9 of Life cycles

Flowers, fruits and seeds

When flowering plants reach the breeding stage of their life cycle they produce flowers. These develop into fruits which contain seeds.

Q1. (a) Name the parts of the flower labelled A to D.

A

B

C

D

(b) Which part of the flower produces pollen?

Q2. Name two ways in which pollen is moved.

.....

Q3. What is nectar?

.....

Q4. What is the name of the movement of pollen from flower to flower?

.....

Q5. What is fertilisation?

.....

.....

Q6. What happens to a flower after fertilisation?

.....

.....

.....